

WHO IS LOVE

By Preston "Zoe" Gardner

Me: Do you know what Love is? If you tell me yes, then you must be Love or my Love. How sad I am for those who don't get a chance to experience you. Excuse me for asking like I'm some kinda Love expert: Love-ologist Somebody Person.

Who: What difference does it make who's asking?

Me: Because if there are 6.974 billion people on earth and they were all in Love, would you say they were all different?

(song #1)

Who: Webster says you are a deep and tender feeling of affection for or attachment or devotion to a person or persons.

Me: If my name was Webster, you would be a generous flow of length and passion; and embrace a nurturing understanding to the world or worlds.

Who: Have I met you before?

Me: I thought I did but you were only a tribulation to my imagination.

Who: They say Love is the condition of the heart?

Me: Love says it's the condition of who's loving.

Who: No one knows when Love has begun. All they know is that it started.

Me: Why do you make people do crazy things?

(song #2 – Meat Loaf)

Who: Who, me?

Me: Yes, you. Who do you think I'm talking to?

Who: Maybe it's in the water.

Me: Maybe it's in you. All the things people die for in the world but to die and never to have been into me is the worst death. To exist and be who you are is the reflection in the mirror. Can you see me, Love me?

Who: To Love and be true to that emotion only awakes the death of my soul and beats my heart a million times.

Me: Can you please not torture me? Tell me who you are.

Who: If I did tell you who I was, will you be able to recognize me if you saw me? Would I be a physical attraction? Or would I be Halle Berry and Nia Long standing in front of you in matching swim suits? No, it's your wife standing there ready to slap your head off if she knew you had that thought.

Me: Could I be Love at first sight?

Who: No, because someone who does not see, can't fall in Love.

Me: Ha, ha, ha! How silly I am to think that you can only be to one person.

Who: How many times do I hear I never want to loose you?

Me: If you are with yourself and you are the company you keep and you love yourself, you are never alone.

Who: Then why do I feel so not worthy of you?

Me: Worthy of who? Worthy of who?

Who: The magnitude of your heart has no bounds.